Dealers, a great way to expand your clientele and portfolio would be to include the restaurant hospitality industry. Most upscale restaurants have wine cellars for public display.

Kessick works closely with architects, and designers in providing their customers with the products and consultation that they need to design wine storage for bars, clubs, restaurants, country clubs, wineries, retail, walk in wine cellars and more.

We have included some of our creations below.

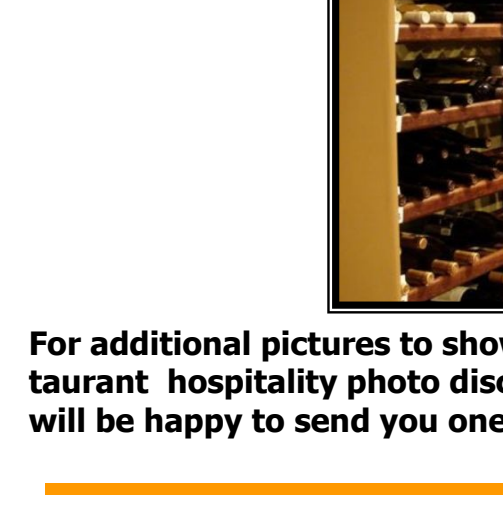

American Grocery Restaurant

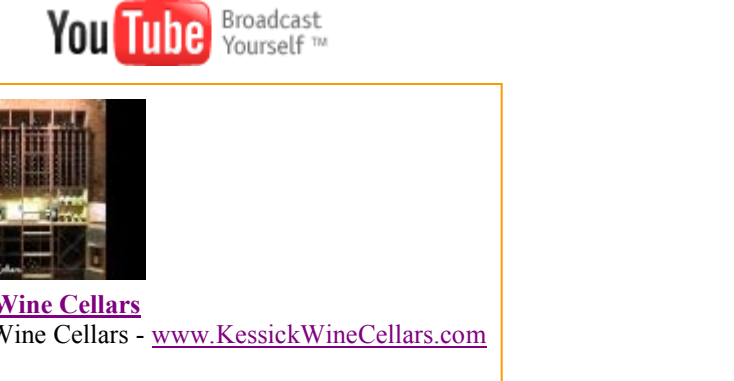

Coal Fire Grill

Tip ~ When researching where a wine bar or new restaurant might be opening in your area, good networks to tap into would be; your local Chamber and restaurant supply companies; also keep in mind that business license and liquor license are all public knowledge.
